F: Number 1

(Pause: 1.5 sec.)

M: Excuse me. Could you tell me where the teachers' room is?

F: Sure! You're a new student, right?

M: Yes, I am. I heard that it's on the second floor, but I can't find it.

F: You are on the right floor, but it's in a different building.

M: Really? I didn't know that there is more than one building.

F: Yeah, there are two buildings, Building A and Building B. We're in Building A now.

M: How can I go to Building B?

F: Well, these two buildings are connected on the first and fourth floors. You can go there through the East Door.

M: So, I should go down to the first floor first.

F: Yes. Then enter the next building, and go up to the second floor. The teachers' room is next to the stairs.

M: I see. Thank you so much!

(Pause: 1.5 sec.)

F: Question: Where is the new student now?

(Pause: 8 sec.)

F: Number 2

(Pause: 1.5 sec.)

M: Good morning, Dorothy.

F: Good morning, Matt. Thank you for inviting me to your house last Saturday.

M: You're welcome!

F: I left my umbrella at your house.

M: Oh, really? Actually, we have some umbrellas now at home. Mom had a tea party yesterday, and some guests forgot to take their umbrellas home.

F: I see.

M: Will you come and get your umbrella after school?

F: Can I go another time? I have to go home early today.

M: No problem. What color is your umbrella?

F: It's black.

M: I don't think we have it. I think somebody took yours by mistake.

F: Oh, no! I borrowed it from my dad. It's his favorite.

M: Don't worry. Mom will find out the guest who took your umbrella. I'll call you later and let you know tonight.

F: Thank you!

(Pause: 1.5 sec.)

M: Question: What will Dorothy do to find her umbrella tonight?

(Pause: 8 sec.)

M: Meg, have you decided what club you will join?

F: No, I haven't decided it yet, Taro.

M: Why don't you choose the tennis club? I know you played tennis in junior high school.

F: Yeah, that's right. But I want to try something new in high school. How about you?

M: Actually, I'm interested in the English debate club. My big sister belonged to the club when she was in this school. She was able to improve her English and debate skills a lot!

F: That sounds great! Let's join the club together. I want to be good at speaking in front of people!

M: OK! How exciting! Let's check the club schedule. It's on Wednesdays and Fridays after school.

F: But I also want to join a sports club. Can we belong to more than one club?

M: Of course, we can.

F: I have dance lessons after school on Mondays. Oh, look at this! I found the perfect one!

(Pause: 1.5 sec.)

M: Question 1: Why did Meg decide to join the English debate club?

(Pause: 8 sec.)

M: Question 2: What sports club will Meg choose?

F: Hi, Dad. It's me! Will you be back soon?

M: Hi, Jenny. I'm still at my office. But I'll go to the department store soon to get the birthday gift we ordered. So, I'll be home around 6 p.m.

F: Can you go to a supermarket to buy some strawberries after that?

M: No problem! They're for Tommy's birthday cake, right?

F: Yes! I baked the cake, but I forgot to buy some strawberries. I want to put some on the top and side of the cake. It's his favorite fruit.

M: OK. How about some watermelon, too? I think he also loves it.

F: Dad! I don't think I can put it on a cake. Just strawberries, please.

M: All right. Do you want me to buy anything else? How about a piece of chocolate with a "Happy Birthday" message?

F: Oh, I've already bought one. It's really cute! I'll show it to you later. The shape is a star!

M: Wow! I've never seen such a unique one! Your little brother will be very happy to see it. See you later.

(Pause: 1.5 sec.)

F: Question 1: What will the birthday cake be like?

(Pause: 8 sec.)

F: Question 2: What will Jenny's father do after talking with Jenny?

M: Hello, welcome to our cheese factory tour! I'm your guide, Edward Collins. Let's discover the world of cheese together! Kokusai Cheese Factory is more than a factory! You'll be able to see how to make cheese, learn about many kinds of cheese and their history, experience making cheese, and taste our fresh cheese! It's all free! So, how many kinds of cheese are there in the world? Ten? Fifty? One hundred? Actually, it's even more than that! Please look at this world cheese map. You can see pictures of cheese on it. It shows cheese produced in each area and what is used to make it. Today, cheese produced in many different ways is eaten all over the world. Of course, it's a food made from milk, but it's not only from cow milk. Other kinds of milk, such as sheep milk, are used. Each one has a unique color, shape, and there are a variety of sizes. Later, you will find out how people started to make such cheese in the Cheese History Room. You'll learn some fun and interesting facts there. By the way, who made the first cheese? Actually, that's still not clear in written history. But according to cheese history, cheese in ancient days was really salty to keep it for a long time. Thanks to modern technology, we use less salt. By reducing salt in cheese, the taste has become better. Today people can enjoy delicious cheese anywhere. Do you have any questions? OK! First, I'll take you to our cheese factory. How is cheese made by using technology in this factory? You can see through the windows. Please follow me!
